Album title Year Tracks Bitrate.The invention relates to a key for a lock comprising a cylindrical lock body for the reception of a key, arranged on an annular wall, and a key retaining element comprising a substantially circular lock plate arranged on the lock body, and having a radially outward directed, circumferentially closed recess opening to the outside. A lock with a key is known from DE-A1-24 44 355. In the known key, the radius of curvature of the facing surfaces between the key and the lock body, and also the key retaining element is designed to be correspondingly large in the lock and the key in order to ensure reliable coupling of the two parts to each other, by which the key can be inserted and removed from the lock body. This requires a relatively large constructional space to be provided in the lock for mounting the key. According to the invention, a key having a simplified constructional design, which can be manufactured comparatively inexpensively, is provided. According to the invention, the key according to the first main aspect is characterized in that a ring-shaped annular groove is provided at a radial distance from the center axis of the lock body, in which ring-shaped groove the key retaining element is accommodated, having at least one radially outward directed through-channel for the entrance of the key in the radial direction. By means of a key which has the ring-shaped annular groove, the key retaining element and the lock body are simply coupled together with a high level of reliability. In the simplest embodiment of the key retaining element, it has a substantially circular surface, which is arranged at a radial distance from the lock body and interacts with a complementary surface in the lock body. By the radially outwardly directed circumferentially closed recess opening to the outside of the key retaining element, the diameter of the recess and the diameter of the channel in the key retaining element can be predetermined in a simple manner, and the size of the key retaining element is limited so that the key retaining element can be provided as a single, lightweight part.
